Eastern Europe Conference

Animal production in CIS countries in the context of global agribusiness: Challenges and perspectives

The development of competitive animal production in the CIS countries, and especially in Russia, Kazakhstan and Ukraine, is currently being specifically targeted and is politically endorsed. The countries aim to become self-sufficient with products of animal origin, are investing considerable amounts in promoting livestock and poultry farmers, taking measures to protect domestic production and seeking new markets.

What are the prospects for development of animal production in the CIS countries in the global context? The question will be discussed by experts from the financial sector, trade associations and practical farmers at the now traditional Eastern Europe Conference at EuroTier 2012.

The conference addresses farmers, investors, decision-makers from the fields of politics and agribusiness, suppliers of machinery, equipment and farm inputs for animal production, as well as animal breeders.

The Federal Ministry of Food, Agriculture and Consumer Protection, DLG e.V., ADT Projekt GmbH and the Agribusiness Workgroup in the Committee on Eastern European Economic Relations extend a cordial invitation to you to attend the Eastern Europe Conference!

Further information on the Eastern Europe Conference at EuroTier 2012 is available from DLG.
